which through an act of carelessness do not appear upon the records. From 1870 until the present time, under Major Kipp's régime, there are no errors, but prior to that year the resolutions of the Board were not copied.

Over one hundred names of honorable mention men have been found, and they will be publicly honored in front of the reviewing stand in Madison Square, on Thursday, by Fresident French, Supt. Murray yielding that honor, as he is one of the honorables by virtue of his excellent work in breaking up the gang of Astoria masked robbers.

Capt. John Gunner, during the draft riots rescued two helpless negroes from an unfriendly lamppost in the face of an infuriated mob. He received two rewards of $100 each from the City Defense Committee, and was awarded honorable mention. The records, however, are silent upon the subject.

Sergt. O'Toole, of the Central Office, had a severe tussle with two burglars, was knocked down, and only saved his life by using his revolver. He shot one of the ruffans in the centre of the forehead, and the other one in the arm, and arrested both. He was put on trial under the rules for discharging his revolver in the public streets. The late Sidney Nichols, presiding, dismissed the complaint, and recommended that O'Toole be awarded an honorable mention. Again the records are silent.

There are similar facts in the case of Capt. Copeland and many other officers, and the force.

Campbell was a transient who registered at a late hour.

That a 15-cent lodger should offer $5 reward for anything is surprising. That the return of a brass-headed cane should be sufficient to call forth that sum from his inside pocket is still more surprising.

The clerk of the 'Howe House vehemently disclaimed acquaintance with the said James Campbell, but admitted that a man named Campbell had alumbered in the house, and added, in the hotel clerk's professional voice, that this same man had banked with the house to the extent of 85 cents, which, wrapped in an envelope, was deposited in the desk.

But Campbell was not in his room, and the clerk did not know what had become of him.

Register's office yesterday, recording the transfer of the building 16 Gramercy Park from Virginia M. Potter to Edwin Booth, afforded a clue to the story of a great act of generosity on the part of Mr. Booth, and one which will redound to the lasting benefit of his profession.

The great actor has purchased this building at a cost of $75,000, will renovate, decorate and furnish it thoroughly at a furthe cost of $60,000, and will then hand it over a a free gift to "The Players" Club. The house, which is on the south side of Gramercy Park, next to that of the late Samuel J. Tilden, is one of brown stone, four stories high. It has a frontage on the Park of 3234 feet and a depth of 135 feet, stretching clear back to Nineteenth street.

The house has at prefent a high stoop and basement door, but the whole front will bechanged according to plans prepared by Mc-kim, Mead & White, the architects. The new entrance will be level with the side walk, and the first floor made lofty and imposing.

Mr. Booth is in the city, but cannot be seen. He is in great sorrow over the loss of his sister. Mrs. Clark. who died at Bournemouth, England, last week. Her body will arrive on the Elbe to-morrow.

An old and intimate friend of Mr. Booth's, who was with the actor when the reporter called, gave the reporter the following additional information.

Mr. Booth is the originator and first President of the club called the Players, which was formed a few months ago.

"Its main object is the formation and preservation of the finest picture gallery and the finest library relating to the theatrical profession in the world.

The membership will by no means consist solely of actors. The title, "The Players," was chosen by Mr. Booth with reference to its wider meaning. "All the world's a stage, and all the men and women merely players." Among the incorporators are Lester Wallack, Gen. W. T. Sherman, Judge Joseph F. Daly, Samuel L. Clemens, Augustin Daly, Richard Watson Gilder, A. M. Palmer, Joseph Jefferson and Stanford White.

The officers are: President, Edwin Booth; Vice-President, Augustin Daly; Secretary, Lawrence Hutton, and Treasurer, William Bispham.

Lawrence Hutton, and Treasurer, William Bispham.

"The club," continued The Evening World's informant, "will be the recipient of gifts which will be the pride, not only of New York but of the whole country.

Besides his money gifts Mr. Booth will present the club some extraordinary fine pictures, books and relics. Among them will be the gallery of-pictures of John E. Owens, which Mr. Booth bought in Baltimore last year for $20,000, and a fine portrait by Sully of his father, Junius Brutus Booth.

"Mr. Joseph Jefferson said at the last meeting of the club that he would give us a cane which formerly belonged to David Garrick, and a pair of gloves believed to have been worn by the immortal Shakespeare himself. Mr. Augustin Daly will present us with a dramatic library, which he has formed by years of persistent search, and at a cost of not less than $25,000.

a dramatic library, which he has formed by years of persistent search, and at a cost of not less than $25,000.

MR. HUNTINGTON'S CONTEMPT.

The Millionaire Must Explain Some Thing to the Court's Satisfaction.

[SPECIAL TO THE WORLD.]

LOUISVILLE, Ky., May 29.—An attachment has been issued in the case of D. W. Sanders vs. the Short Route Rallway Company to bring C. P. tempt. It is returnable May 31, Sanders, in March, secured a temporary injunction restraining Huntington from issuing $1,000,000 of obligations against the company in payment for property bought of Gen. John Echols. He also secured an amendment to the company's charter requiring the offices and books of the company to be kept within the bounds of Kentucky. Under this amendment sanders secured an order to Hantington to produce the books and effects of the company in court. The case of the injunction agrainst the issuance of the obligations was heard to-day, and compromised by Hantington agreeing to cancei the contract with Echols and the securities.

Just as everything seemed adjusted the question was asked why Huntington had not produced the books per order. Judge Toney at once became aroused when he noted the failure and promptly issued the attachment, under which Huntington must on Thursday personally give a satisfactory exouse or be subject to a fine or imprisonment. On the fifth floor he found Mrs. Charles Diamoud, helplessly embarrassed by three little children who clung to her skirts.

By this time Truck 18 had arrived and to the firemen he handed Mrs. Diamond and her children.

Then Mrs. Ross Josephs, her aged mother, Gussie Josephs, age fifteen months, and Sallie, a four-month-old baby, were carried down by the bluecost and landed on the ground by the firemen.

From the third floor Mrs. Amelia Lavin and her children, Abram and Annie, aged two and one-half years and nine months respectively, were taken, and Mrs. Mena Dobinsky, her children, Jennie, aged six, and John, aged four years, and Annie Rober-wich were rescued.

The flames were roaring and rushing up the elevator shaft at the rear of the building, and smoke was pouring out at every window all this time.

A second alarm was sent out and then a third, and fully ten thousand people gathered from the big, densely peopled tenements of the neighborhood. Their excitement was hardly less than that of the immates of the burning building.

But with a coolness to be commended, Policeman Gallagher set about accrtaining the whereabouts of all the tenants, and soon every one was accounted for.

Not a life had been lost, not a person had been injured.

By means of an interpreter an Evenino World reporter gleaned from Mrs. Mena Dobinsky that a painter had been at work in her kitchen on the second floor, and that a bottle of something which she could not name had tipped over upon a shelf, its contents being sprinkled on the stove.

A great flame arose and catching the fresh paint soon put the whole room in a blaze. The elevator, by which coal and provisions were hoisted, was near and the shaft formed a vent for the flame. The smoke was dense and but for the fire-escapes, amply provided, there might have been much loss of life.

The fire was got under control at 8.40. The loss to the building is estimated at $5,000, but the families have lost their all by fire and water.

This time Tammany Hall will be accommodated with The leaders decided against taking th

The leaders decided against taking an army to St. Louis and the number of pilgrims was limited. The reduction in the number of visiting Tammanyites is owing to the peace and and good will now existing between Tammany Hall and the County Democracy. Their followers will meet there as brethren and not as foes. It will be the first National convention for many years to witness harmony among the representatives of the local Democracy of New York City.

The Democrats from Kentucky and Texas won't know what to make of it.

A HASTY ADONIS.

Threatening to Kill the Girl Who Decided Not to Marry Him. Adonis Legendre, a Frenchman, aged wenty-two, residing at 741 Tenth avenue, entered the residence of Dr. F. Marshall, 54 West Fourteenth street, yesterday flourishing a large army revolver and crying: "If Annie don't go away with me to-day I will kill her."

Dr. Marshall left the house and secured Officer Hopper, of the Fifteenth Precinct, who arrested the infuriated Frenchman before he could execute his threat.

Legendre was taken to Jefferson Market and held in $1,000 bail for felonious assaukt. Annie Arnold, aged twenty, in the employ of Dr. Marshall, has been keeping company with Legendre for the bast two years. Every preparation had been made for the wedding, which was to take place next Wednesday. In anticipation of his marriage, Legendre gave up his trade, which is that of painter, and purchased a restaurant in Wooster street. Sunday night he and his sweetheart took a stroll. During their walk she informed him that Dr. Marshall had advised her not to marry him, as he had consumption and could not live longer than four months.

With his hopes thus dashed to the ground, Legendre passed a sleepless night and formed the hasty plan which ended as above.

Thirty Years in a Pigeon-Hole, MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., May 29.—The officers of the St Croix and La Crosse District Land Office, in isconsin, while looking over the old records and shoulding in the office at St. Croix discovered about one thousand old land patents which had been missing for over unity years. They bear date from 1860 to 1854, are signed by President James Buchanan and cover much of the area of the city of Eau Claire. Their discovery relieves a great many property-holders of the fear of possible litigation.
